I would encourage you to repeat Psalms at least once this year. You can read through Proverbs once (or more), but be sure to read the thirty sayings in the months with thirty days.

When you finish the other columns read more in the other columns until you have finished the entire Bible. You could also start over with that column and gain a different cross-reference experience next year.

Bible Reading Schedule

It is not important for the Christian to read the Bible ... it is essential!

To assist us in understanding the way God gradually revealed His plan to mankind, we are encouraging ourselves to read the Scripture as it unfolded historically.

Reading the entire Bible in one year is as simple as reading one chapter of each column per day. If you read six chapters per day, you will finish before the new year becomes the old year.

You could read all six chapters at one sitting, say in the morning, or read three in the morning and three at night. You could read three in the morning, a Psalm at lunch, and then finish before bedtime.

For the serious Bible student, it will be helpful to keep a notebook where you can write down your insights as well as your questions.

If your printer has the ability to print on both sides of the paper, select the option to flip on the short edge, then fold it that way.
